Tax rates at the salary you entered vary significantly based on the level and nature of investment income, as well as other factors.